Market Summary

Global economy slows down as Covid-19 pandemic remains and economic activities are still below normal level. Nonetheless, central banks and governments altogether launched unprecedented stimulus packages to combat such impacts which could support global economy. Capital markets recovered after good results of vaccine development and US election. Policy rates are likely to maintain at a very low level. Easing monetary policy in major countries will reduce headwind for risk assets. As Joe Biden was elected to be the US president, the green initiatives was encouraged strongly. This is beneficial to the sustainable investment themes overall.

Fund's Investment Strategy

Performance

Indexed value (until 31-01-2021) - Source: Robeco

Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was 0.34%.

Our strategy slightly outperformed the benchmark in January. The strong stock selection in healthcare and information technology was offset by the weaker selection in the materials and consumer discretionary sectors. Our positioning in information technology benefited from the strong performance of semiconductor names, helped especially by very strong results from the computing, automotive and industrials verticals. In healthcare, we benefited from particularly strong results and positive pipeline updates from Eli Lilly.

Market development

Global equity markets mostly traded sideways in January. The year started off with significant gains, followed by a more jittery market due to new Covid-19 outbreaks. Growth names started to perform better relative to value as the hope for a rebound in global economic growth in 2021 and 2022 increased. We have also seen a significant improvement in earnings revisions for next year, which added to the positive environment for equities.

Expectation of fund manager

We have become more upbeat with regard to the macroeconomic outlook for developed markets, as we are starting to recover from the depths of the Covid-19 crisis. While we are still very early in the process, we now have a number of working vaccines and vaccinations have started around the world. The focus will be on the most vulnerable and on personnel working in healthcare facilities. We think that this is good news for developed equity markets and that this will lead to reopening of economies sometime in 2021. We have also seen that this leads to a significant improvement in earnings revisions, so we have upgraded our earnings revisions factor accordingly. Valuations are high from an absolute perspective, but not excessively so when taking the low interest rate environment into account. We think that monetary and fiscal stimulus will continue. We also believe that the focus of both governments and central banks will remain on economic recovery rather than on price stability, and this will likely lift equity markets higher in 2021. The technical picture of equity markets has improved meaningfully, and demand and supply look to remain favorable.

Top 10 largest positions

Microsoft is the largest holding in the fund. We think that the company is very well positioned to benefit from the move towards the cloud and the trend towards working from home. Microsoft has low double-digit growth, an excellent return on invested capital and it generates very good free cash flow. Apple is our second-largest holding. We like Apple as we think that there is a decent 5G upgrade cycle coming, combined with an improving outlook for their services, peripherals (AirPods and watches) and a revamped Mac and MacBook product line. Our third-largest position is in Eli Lilly. We think that pharma names in general are very undervalued, and we think that Eli Lilly has one of the best product pipelines in the sector.

ESG integration policy

Robeco Sustainable Global Stars Equities integrates ESG at every stage of the investment process. We use sustainability performance rankings as a first indication of a company's sustainability profile. In addition we use it to exclude the worst 20% scoring stocks from the investable universe. We then analyze the impact of financially material ESG factors to a company's competitive position and value drivers. We believe that this enhances our ability to understand existing and potential risks and opportunities of a company. If ESG risks and opportunities are significant, the ESG analysis may impact a stock's fair value and the portfolio allocation decision. Throughout the investment process, we strive for a low environmental impact, as measured by GHG emissions, water use and waste generation, with the aim of realizing at least 20% better levels than the index. In addition to ESG integration, Robeco's dedicated active ownership team conducts proxy voting and engagement activities focused on specific themes, such as climate change, aiming to improve a company's sustainability profile. Furthermore, the fund will not invest in companies exposed to the following controversial sectors or business practices: military contracting, controversial weapons, fire arms, UN Global Compact breaches, tobacco, palm oil, nuclear power, thermal coal, arctic drilling and oil sands, according to strict revenue thresholds.

ESG Score

The portfolio ESG score (and E,S and G score) is calculated by multiplying the RobecoSAM Smart ESG Score of each holding by its respective portfolio or index weight. The same methodology is applied in calculating the key ESG Criterion scores. The scores of the portfolio are provided alongside the scores of the index, highlighting the portfolio's relative sustainability. The colors indicate the score of the portfolio, whilst the shading shows the index.

ESG Score

Environmental Footprint

The RobecoSAM footprint ownership of the portfolio expresses the total resource consumption the portfolio finances. Each company's footprint is calculated by normalizing resources consumed by the company's enterprise value. Multiplying these values by the dollar amount invested in each company yields the aggregate footprint ownership figures. The selected index's footprint (for an equivalent $ amount invested in corporates) is provided alongside. The portfolio's score is shown in blue and the index in grey.
