Overview of the Thai Stock Market February 1, 2020 – January 31, 2021

February 2020 to January 2021: The SET fell in February 2020 after the emergence of novel coronavirus known as “COVID-19” in Wuhan, China. The coronavirus extended rapidly globally in March 2020 while Thailand’s first case was diagnosed in mid-February 2020 and the high for daily new cases was in March 2020, leading the government to announce a state of emergency in order to contain the virus. Expecting this to do heavy damage to economies, investors around the world, including Thai, fled from risky assets to cash, leading stock markets to plummet. The SET sank from 1,580 at end-2019 to 2020’s low of 1,000 in March 2020; in the process, the circuit breaker was triggered three times. In the lockdown, some businesses were ordered to close, international flights were banned and transportation was limited. Once the outbreak began to get under control, evidence by a steady decrease in daily new cases, investors returned to buy into the market, which twitched the market up in April 2020 – May 2020. The government and Bank of Thailand launched urgent measures to aid businesses and individuals damaged by COVID-19, easing investor concerns. However, the SET reversed down in June 2020 despite continued absence of local transmission, as elsewhere in the world new infections and deaths continued to surge. The only bright spot was good news about progress on a coronavirus vaccine from time to time. Anti-government demonstrations began to heat up in September 2020 and escalated after the government ordered them to break up in mid-October 2020. Earnings season began in mid-October 2020 and most companies reported both YoY and QoQ falls, another issue that clouded investor sentiment. The market picture changed in November 2020 on the good news that Joe Biden won the US presidential election, leading capital to flow into emerging markets as investors expect Biden’s foreign policy to be more compromising and cooperative than Trump’s. Foreign investors were a net buy of more than 30 billion in the Thai stock market in November 2020, notably in cyclical shares. Progress in a COVID-19 vaccine also supported, with tests showing it was more than 90% effective. The momentum continued in December 2020 after the Food and Drug Administration in some countries approved emergency use for a coronavirus vaccine. However, the market faced a sell-off from time to time as investors panicked on the return of local transmission of COVID-19 and discovery of a new COVID-19 strain that spreads more quickly. The market rose further in January 2021 along with foreign stock markets, pleased by hopes on Biden’s US$1.9tn coronavirus relief plan and investment in clean energy projects which are parts of Biden’s environmental policies. DELTA began to fall from mid-January 2021 after the surged since December 2020, pressured the market until the month ended. The SET closed January 2021 at 1,466.98.

SET return between February 2020 to January 2021 was -3.11%. The largest negative returns were in PF&REIT -32.02%, CONS -16.99%, and TRANS -16.18%. The largest positive returns were in ETRON at +457.09%, AGRI at +58.64% and AUTO at +26.22%. Foreign investors were net sellers of 258 billion.
