Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was 5.03%.

In May, the portfolio had a strong absolute return, yet could not fully keep up with the benchmark. Sector-wise, our positioning in consumer staples and financials helped performance most. However, the sectors healthcare and consumer discretionary struggled most. In terms of stock selection, Siemens Energy again contributed most to performance as the company announced very robust results, supported by a strong order book that materially lifts its growth, margin and cash flow prospects. The company is a metaphorical Swiss army knife as far as the energy transition is concerned, offering various solutions within gas, renewables and grid networks. Taiwanese semiconductor manufacturer TSMC also performed well, spurred by the fact that the AI theme is still very much alive and kicking, confirmed by the rosy spending and outlook commentaries of the large hyperscalers. Given better matching of supply and demand, the potential for AI order cuts now seems less likely overall.

Market development

4

After several U-turns, investors seemingly took President Trump's 'beautiful tariff' agenda with a grain of salt, with global equity markets rallying back to levels prevailing in the lead up to Liberation Day (+6.1% in EUR; +5.9% in USD). Temporary US-China tariff relief eased recession fears, at least in the near term. Moreover, the announcement of the 'One Big Beautiful Bill', effectively extending the US tax cuts implemented in 2017, drove cyclicals and higher beta names upwards. As the market shifted focus back to this bullish part of the Trump agenda, Europe, Japan and emerging markets also performed well. For Europe, in particular, a number of policy shifts have improved its outlook, such as a more supportive German fiscal regime but also renewed momentum in Europe's reform agenda. The caveat, though, is that we do need to see these promises to start showing up in the hard data, something the market is pricing in already. Globally, support from front-loading of activity will start to fade and with market valuations again at lofty levels, there is scope for disappointment ahead.

Expectation of fund manager

With many twists and turns in the tariff saga so far, global economies are net-net still worse off, yet equity markets have moved higher. Meanwhile, higher bond yields on rising US budget deficit concerns makes us cautious about assuming that the recent rally has a lot more legs. Once the complexities of all the trade negotiations come to the fore, we continue to expect weaker global growth ahead. A policy-induced supply shock could lead to a kind of inflation the Federal Reserve is less equipped to deal with. However, at some point it needs to act anyway as doing nothing might bring even more damage to its credibility. After the recent rebound, market valuations leave little room for complacency, particularly in the context of anticipated earnings cuts. In order to see a genuine sustainable recovery, we need to see further trade de-escalation taking a firmer hold. The anticipated playbook by investors is that President Trump threatens big, but ultimately lowers tariffs. Given his very erratic behavior so far, this is a view we don't yet subscribe to with high conviction. Therefore, we continue to favor high-quality stocks best able to withstand macro shock-and-awe

Top 10 largest positions

ROBECO

Alpha is generated from active weights, hence below we share the holdings for which we deviate most from the benchmark. Our top active position is RELX, a defensive information and data analytics company that owns a huge portfolio of high-quality medical, legal and scientific journals. We also believe that RELX can be an important beneficiary of AI as the demand for accurate and trustworthy data only increases, a key tenet of RELX's business that seems underestimated by the market. Haleon is our second-largest active weight; a consumer health OTC company with a superior growth profile driven by its pure-play focus and premiumization efforts. After coming out of GSK/Pfizer. Haleon has plenty of opportunity to further grow margins and use its cash flows for debt paydown and shareholder returns. Consumer staples behemoth Unilever rounds off our topthree active positions. Under the leadership of a new CEO, the company is undergoing a restructuring where it doesn't shy away from divesting underperforming assets. Unilever also invests more in its top brands across beauty and personal care categories to spur growth and improve its overall return profile.

SDG Impact Alignment

This distribution across SDG scores shows the portfolio weight allocated to companies with a positive, negative and neutral impact alignment with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) based on Robeco's SDG Framework. The framework utilizes a three-step approach to assess a company's impact alignment with the relevant SDGs and assign a total SDG score. The score ranges from positive to negative impact alignment with levels from high, medium or low impact alignment. This results in a 7-step scale from -3 to +3. For comparison, index figures are provided alongside that of the portfolio. Only holdings mapped as corporates are included in the figures.

Engagement

Robeco distinguishes between three types of engagement. Value Engagement focuses on long-term issues that are financially material and/or are causing adverse sustainability impacts. The themes can be broken into Environmental, Social, Governance, or Voting-related. SDG Engagement aims to drive a clear and measurable improvement in a company's SDG contribution. Enhanced engagement is triggered by misconduct and focuses on companies severely breaching internationals standards. The report is based on all companies in the portfolio for which engagement activities have taken place during the past 12 months. Note that companies may be under engagement in multiple categories simultaneously. While the total portfolio exposure excludes double counting, it may not equal the sum of individual category exposures.

	Portfolio exposure	# companies engaged with	# activities with companies engaged with
Total (* excluding double counting)	62.01%	32	141
🔯 Environmental	9.57%	5	17
